Dear Mike:

Enclosed are the results of the Acute Bioassay tests completed on the flume effluent using the Dolores River as the dilution water. The effluent and river water were toxic to Ceriodaphnia but not to the fathead minnows.

The appropriate forms required by your state are also enclosed with this letter. I did not know if UPS gave you a break on the cost of the last shipment due to the storm that disrupted overnight travel. I have billed the full amount, not subtracting the cost of shipping. Please contact me and I will subtract it from the cost of the chronic bioassay.

We appreciate doing business with you. If you have further questions, please call (406)586-8450.

Sincerely,

Fred N. Lamming
